New Teacher Spotlight

Julianna Pierson I received a B.F.A. in Ballet and a B.S. in Physics Teaching from the University of Utah. I decided not to be a professional dancer, but I still enjoy dancing when I can, taking class a few times a week. When I have free time, I may be found devouring books or learning tennis from my husband. I am originally from a part of California where it does not snow, and so adjusting to the Utah winters has been somewhat difficult. I enjoy being out in the sunshine whenever I can, even if there is snow on the ground. I would much prefer warm weather and swimming in the pool, but I will take what I can get! Lastly, one of my favorite things to do on a work-light weekend is convince my husband to visit his parents in North Ogden so I can play with their cat.

Ms. Powell

Our very own Britnie Powell has been named a winner of the Presidential Award for Excellence in Mathematics and Science Teaching. Britnie was named a state finalist in 2014 and was just recently informed she had been selected as a winner. She will travel to Washington, DC, for an awards ceremony next month and receive a citation signed by President Obama and a $10,000 award from the National Science Foundation. We've known all along what a fabulous science teacher she is, please help us celebrate this amazing accomplishment by dropping off a congratulatory note to Ms. Powell in the front office. We will forward them to her after Labor Day.

"The recipients of this award are integral to ensuring our students are equipped with critical thinking and problem-solving skills that are vital to our Nation's success," President Obama said. "As the United States continues to lead the way in the innovation that is shaping our future, these excellent teachers are preparing students from all corners of the country with the science, technology, engineering, and mathematics skills that help keep us on the cutting-edge."
