

Graduating Class of 2020:

Isabella Lonardo

SLCSE Adventures Include...

Studying chromosomes with the U of U for Science Fair

Leading middle school students in doing community service

Banding songbirds and kestrels through Rio Mesa and APES

Acting in a play

Building a tiny medieval castle

Singing for an Honors Choir at Gardner Hall

Interviewing incredible women doctors for Senior Project

Reading and analyzed in-depth five of Shakespeare's works

Helping students grow a successful garden over the summer

My Plans for Next Year

I plan to attend Utah State University, live with five other girls in a suite-style dorm, and start out as a Biology Major. I am beyond excited! I plan to continue my love of the outdoors by joining the USU Trail Running Club (or just running for fun), and mountain biking in Logan Canyon. I also plan to visit home every few weeks to see family and to visit Bear Lake while I have some free time, and later continue work as a CNA at the local hospital.

SLCSE-ism I Love: Ethical World Citizens

Sums up the focus that many of our classes have been geared towards in keeping our scholarly mindset driven towards bettering our world, whether it is about biodiesel in Chemistry to work towards cleaner air, studying the lifestyles and cultures of many in World Civilizations to promote tolerance and critical thinking skills, or through 6th grade Service Learning that taught me about the fun of helping others, I think this SLCSE-ism will be something I always work towards.

Student Impact Statement: Olivia

One person who has had a significant impact on my learning and life at SLCSE has been Olivia. Throughout middle school we were close but grew further apart during high school. However, Olivia always inspires me to be a more engaged person. Her work ethic, kindness, and thinking skills, are visible in all interactions she makes with others. Even when we were forced out of necessity to compete for a scholarship, she sent me good luck texts and demonstrated classiness to a high degree. She helped me understand what it takes to make and keep friendships, through organizing events, Zooms, and truly listening to friends who come to her with hardship. Olivia should be a role model for all for how to interact with the world: with passion, humility despite accomplishments, optimism, and kindness. I'm so thankful to have gotten to know her over the past seven years.

